

This architectural floor plan depicts a large workshop or factory floor, organized into several distinct functional areas. At the top of the plan is a staircase labeled "SANTAIRE - VESTIAIRE". The main workspace is divided into three primary sections: "FUMISTERIE" (left), "MECANIQUE" (center), and "ELECTRICIEN" (right). The "FUMISTERIE" section contains several workstations, some labeled with "Table à tracer" and "Table à calculer", and others with "Table à dessin". The "MECANIQUE" section features a "Table à calculer" and a "Table à dessin". The "ELECTRICIEN" section includes a "Table à calculer" and a "Table à dessin". A central corridor, labeled "Récuse", runs through the middle of the plan, providing access to various rooms and equipment. On the right side, there is a "BUREAU" (office) and a "Récuse" (entrance/exit). The plan also shows various storage areas, including "Récuse" and "Récuse", and a "Récuse" (entrance/exit) at the bottom right. The overall layout is designed for efficient workflow and organization of different trades within the workshop.
